My Professional Brand

Education professional with a passion for generating solutions, building systems, and empowering people.

My excitement lies in improving how humans interact with technology. I am a collaborative team member who is naturally curious and likes to bring out the best in those around me. To me, being a lifelong learner is in my character, not just a phrase for job applications. I am interested in working for a disruptive company where I can make maximize my impact. I enjoy finding technology solutions to organizational problems. I've learned to become an agile project manager with a holistic understanding of how organizations function. I believe in a design thinking mindset with a focus on the end goal.
